THERE IS A SPELL UPON YOUR LIPS by Christian Hildebrandt

When a musician becomes a composer, the art of composing often arises as an extension of the performance of music; sometimes directly, as when the pianist composes his own piano works, sometimes as the fulfilment of a need for musical expression to which one does not have direct access through one's own performance; like an afterthought that continues in a different medium.

That was how the classical composer originally arose: as a musician with more on his mind than his own musical performance, and that is how it is too with the jazz pianist Martin Lutz when he expresses his romantic and poetic vein in choral works.

Martin Lutz (b. 1974) is a thorough man, and his music demonstrates a profound empathy with the genres and styles with which he works. But he is also an artist who expresses himself with bold strokes, in terms of both style and genre. With a few handfuls of releases behind him he has shown he is at home not only as the anchorman in his various jazz and crossover-like ensembles, but also as the originator of music for children, music for sport and athletics and as a classical composer and arranger. The last of these roles has to a great extent grown out of Lutz's many years of working as a conductor of a number of amateur and school choirs. Alongside his diverse activities as a musician Lutz has a day job as a high school teacher of music and German.

All the same, with this release, Martin Lutz is taking a step into a new dimension. Here the chamber choir Camerata and the conductor Martin Nagashima Toft, along with a small group of choice instrumentalists, present the composer Martin Lutz from his most purely classical side.

The main work, a good 40 minutes long, is the Stabat Mater (2007) for soprano and tenor soloist, mixed choir, oboe, vibraphone and cello. 'Stabat Mater', a religious poem from the thirteenth century, attributed to Jacopo di Todi, is one of the Catholic tradition's best known hymns. The text is about the mourning Virgin Mary standing by the cross where her condemned son Jesus hangs, living out his last hours as an earthly human being.

For the last 500 years the hymn, with its story of the suffering and death of Jesus on the cross seen from his mother's supremely painful point of view, has become world-famous as the basis for a succession of great musical works in the motet genre. The Stabat Mater has thus become a kind of motet counterpart to the Requiem Mass.

And with his Stabat Mater Martin Lutz places himself at the ambitious end of the genre, at greater length than the famous classical models Palestrina, Scarlatti and Pergolesi. His models are more the Romantic works of among others Rossini and Schubert, which with a dramatic oratorio-like element elevate the genre to concert length.

However, despite its length, Lutz's Stabat Mater is not a swelling Romantic piece. There is something intimate and close about the work, which moves through 17 short movements with alternating choral and solo configurations, plus a variety of instrumental accompaniment. The music is borne up by a powerfully imagistic expressiveness that mixes a classical major-minor tonality with a more freely fantasizing tetradic harmony. The movements come to the fore as a succession of mood-changing tableaux where the form-creating element is a gradual tonal accumulation of repeated melodic phrases, often with a single appealing motif as an ostinato. Here one senses the roots of the music in a playful improvisational practice where the musical ideas flow easily and naturally into one another and create a gentle, organic progression.

The Two Marian Motets, Salve Regina and Ave Maria, belong genre-wise to the same category as the Stabat Mater. Here too we find much-loved Catholic textual models which a royal succession of composers have raised to the starry firmament of the classical choral tradition over the centuries. The Salve Regina and Ave Maria are canonical prayers and thus, unlike Stabat Mater, belong to the liturgy – they are not conducive to the grand-scale concert form, but traditionally wear humbler, more reflective musical attire. This is also the case with Martin Lutz's Marian Motets which, each with its own shade of devotional gravity, praise the Holy Virgin Mary. Here too the good melody is at the forefront, while the homogeneous a cappella format gives rise to more elaborated phrasing and an expressiveness that can be characterized as a mixture of the traditional polyphonic motet style and a contemporary, modal choral sound that recalls the breakthrough in recent years of composers like Ola Gjeilo, Paul Mealor and Eric Whitacre.

The curious title Hoc est corpus, hokus pokus reveals that with the next work we abandon the context of the traditional models. Nevertheless this too is a motet composition. The magic formula 'Hocus Pocus' is in fact derived from the Latin words 'Hoc est corpus', which come from the Catholic Communion's sacramental transubstantiation of the Host into the body of Christ.

What the pawky title thus suggests is that the motet takes its starting point in the text of the beginning of the Latin Eucharist ritual, but is then succeeded by an English translation of the end of the ritual. The transition between the two linguistic worlds is expressively marked by a long tenor solo. A musical point is also traceable in the fact that the polyphonic and melismatic style in the Latin introduction is replaced by a warm-sounding and text-close choral style in the English ending.

The title work of the album, There is a spell upon your lips, with its almost ten minutes of playing time, is also the longest individual movement. The text is an English translation of the Danish poet Emil Aarestrup's famous love poem Der er en Trolddom paa din Læbe from 1835. Throughout the piece the soprano soloist, oboe and choir intermingle in a heartfelt blend where the style moves gently back and forth between a neo-Romantic tonal universe and a more contemporary jazz-tinged modal style marked by a soft rhythmicization of the metre and a hint of percussive elements in the choir voices. A long section in the first half of the piece builds up with a number of repetitions of the same phrase, where men's and women's voices alternately chant the first words of the text, 'There is a spell', like a magic formula, and like a stylized dance around the implicit declaration of love behind the enchanting lips.

With Two Love Songs to texts by William Shakespeare the love theme is of course taken up from Aarestrup's enchantment, but at the same time the historical setting is also taken back to the poetic universe of the Renaissance. The two pieces are highly homogeneous and in style and expression are not far from the contemporary choral lyricism of the Marian Motets. All is euphony, and in a tasteful balance which may well be said to perpetuate the serene ideals of the Renaissance; but with a modern tonal quality and catchy melodies Martin Lutz goes straight to the heart with his candidates for modern choral classics.

THE PERFORMERS

The Copenhagen Chamber Choir CAMERATA was founded in 1965 and is considered one of Denmark's leading chamber choirs. CAMERATA is a professionally run amateur choir of 25 experienced singers conducted by the young conductor Jakob Hultberg. CAMERATA's repertoire covers a wide range from sacred to light music, but at the core lies Western European choral music. CAMERATA does many a cappella concerts and tours both at home and abroad, visiting countries such as Chile, Brazil, Estonia, England, Australia, Canada, and, most recently, Japan in 2011. CAMERATA usually performs two oratorios every year. For more than 20 years, Handel's The Messiah has attracted a full house in Holmen Church, Copenhagen, three nights before Christmas. Other recurring oratorios are Bach's St. Matthew and St. John Passions and Mozart's Requiem. CAMERATA has recorded several CDs, counting works by Carl Nielsen, Vagn Holmboe, Poul Ruders and most recently Vagn Nørgaard, as well as recordings with lyrics by Danish poets set to music. The choir's recording of The Messiah won Best Classical Release at the Danish Grammy Awards in 1999. CAMERATA is an important player on the Danish musical scene. Through collaborations with both established and upcoming orchestras, soloists and composers, the choir aims to further a constant development of the classical music scene. In September 2006 the choir was awarded the European Choir Prize presented by His Royal Highness Prince Henrik, and in 2008 the choir won 1st prize at the Vagn Holmboe Competition in Horsens. In 2010, CAMERATA won 2nd prize at Aarhus International Choir Competition.

The Japanese-Danish conductor Martin Nagashima Toft made a successful debut at Deutsche Oper Berlin in the summer of 2014, conducting the world premiere of LoveAffairs. In the season 2013/14 he was engaged as Music Director on the Fledermaus production at the Royal Danish Opera and the Trovatore production at Opera Hedeland. This season takes him to a.o. Orquesta Ciudad de Granada and Theater Baden-Baden. He studied with Prof. Giancarlo Andretta at the Royal Danish Academy of Music, receiving his advanced post-graduate diploma and giving a debut concert in 2010. In 2011-2013 he was invited as fellow at the Akademie Musiktheater heute/Deutsche Bank Stiftung. Since 2005 he has been working together with most of the Danish opera houses, regional orchestras, chamber orchestras, military bands, and professional choirs, giving several world premieres and first performances of works in Denmark.

In 2007 he made his conducting debut in Italy, and in 2012 his opera debut followed at Nationale Reisopera in the Netherlands. He has received numerous scholarships to study further in e.g. Bologna, and Tokyo, with a.o. Claudio Abbado, Gert Albrecht, and Michael Schönwandt, and from 2006-2013 he held the position as chief conductor and artistic director of CAMERATA.

Ditte Højgaard Andersen graduated from the Royal Danish Academy of Opera in Copenhagen under Susanna Eken, and she is today recognized as one of Scandinavia's leading coloratura sopranos. Her core repertoire is the virtuoso roles of the Baroque, but since recently it also comprises Mozart and Strauss. Ditte began her international career in the soloist ensemble on Deutsche Oper in Berlin (2006-08), and in recent years she has sung at several opera houses around Europe. Ditte is a much sought-after concert singer in, a.o., Handel's The Messiah, Haydn's The Creation, Mozart's C minor Mass, Carl Orff's Carmina Burana and Bachs St. Matthew and St. John Passions. In the season 2013/14, Ditte toured Europe with Les Musiciens du Louvre and the conductor Marc Minkowski in Bach's St. John Passion, also recorded on CD. She is even featured on recordings of La Clemenza di Tito with Adam Fischer; as Bauci in Gluck's Bauci e Filemone, Cirene in Aristeo with Christophe Rousset, Artenice in Terradella's Sesotri as well as on a CD with arias and cantatas from the Italian Baroque for Berlin Classics.

The tenor Bo Kristian Jensen trained at the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, Ohio, and at the Royal Danish Opera Academy in Copenhagen. For a period of years he was a member of the soloist ensemble at the Royal Danish Theatre, where he sang roles like Tamino, Don Ottavio, Camille de Rosillon and Count Almaviva. Abroad, he has been involved in opera productions at Deutsche Oper am Rhein, the festival in Aix en Provence, and at the Royal Albert Hall. In the 2012/13 season he was Phantom in Andrew Lloyd-Webber's Love Never Dies at Det Ny Teater in Copenhagen. Other noteworthy roles count Nemorino in L'elisir d'amore, Alfredo in La Traviata, Mime in Siegfried, Arturo in I Puritani, Tybalt in Romeo and Juliet, and Pinkerton i Madama Butterfly.

Mathias Reumert is a Danish percussionist, conductor and arranger. He studied percussion at the Royal Danish Academy of Music and at the University of California, San Diego. As a soloist he has performed extensively in Europe and in many parts of the Americas, premiering several new works. Early in his career Reumert received 1st Prizes at three major international music competitions, including the International Gaudeamus Interpreters' Competition in Amsterdam. In 2010, the duo Reumert/Hildebrandt created and premiered the theatre show Ein Trommel-spiel at Anemone Teatret in Copenhagen. The show has since been staged at the Borusan Music House in Istanbul and at the Meyerhold Theatre in Moscow, among other venues. In 2013 Reumert founded the ensemble EKKOZONE which will release a CD for Dacapo with new works by Danish composer Karsten Fundal. Other Dacapo CDs featuring Reumert include Poul Ruders' percussion concerto, Monodrama.

Mette Termansen, born in 1981, studied oboe at the Royal Danish Academy of Music, Copenhagen, with Professor Ole-Henrik Dahl and with Bjørn Carl Nielsen; later with Gordon Hunt at the Guildhall School of Music and Drama in London. Mette graduated in 2010 from the Advanced Post-graduate Course, the Soloist Class, at the Royal Academy in Aarhus. During her time in London, Mette appeared in venues such as the Barbican and the Wigmore Hall and alongside the London Symphony Orchestra and the Philharmonia Orchestra as part of her studies. Mette was selected to become a member of the Southbank Sinfonia, London, in 2008. The experiences on her one-year orchestral academy programme included, a.o., performing André Previn's music for Tom Stoppard's play Every Good Boy Deserves Favour at the Royal National Theatre, London. Mette is a freelance orchestral player and has performed with Copenhagen Phil, Malmö Symphony Orchestra, Helsingborg Symphony Orchestra, Odense Symphony Orchestra and the Royal Danish Orchestra.

The cellist Adam Stadnicki, born 1986 in Berlin, had his debut from the soloist class at the Royal Danish Academy of Music in 2014. He also attended the prestigious Conservatoire Nationale de Musique de Paris and the School of Manhattan in New York. Adam has performed as a soloist several times around Europa with among others the Danish National Chamber Orchestra and Adam Fischer in Haydn's C major cello concerto. He is a sought-after orchestral musician and chamber musician and has won many prizes with Copenhagen Piano Quartet both at home and abroad, as well as having toured the world. With the quartet he received the important Jacob Gades Legat and the Sonning Scholarship. Adam is permanent solo cello in Athelas Sinfonietta Copenhagen.

Når en musiker bliver komponist, opstår kunsten ofte i forlængelse af musikudøvelsen. Nogen gange direkte, som når pianisten komponerer sine egne klaverværker. Andre gange som en udfyldelse af et musikalsk udtryk, man ikke har direkte adgang til gennem sin egen musiceren. Som den forlængede eftertanke, der får lyd i et andet medium.

Sådan er den klassiske komponist oprindelig opstået. Som en musiker med mere på hjerte end sin egen musikudfoldelse. Og sådan er det også med jazzpianisten Martin Lutz, når han udfolder sin romantiske og poetiske åre i korværker.

Martin Lutz (f. 1974) er en grundig mand, og hans musik viser dyb indlevelse i den genre og stil, han arbejder med. Men han er også en kunstner, som udtrykker sig med den brede pensel, både stil- og genremæssigt. Med et par håndfulde udgivelser bag sig har han vist sig hjemmenvant ikke bare som ankermand i sine forskellige jazz- og crossoverprægede ensamblér, men også som ophavsmand til musik for børn, musik til idrætsbrug og som klassisk komponist og arrangør. Sidstnævnte rolle er i høj grad vokset ud af Lutz' mangeårige virke som dirigent for en række amatørkor og skolekor. Ved siden af sit mangeartede musikervirke er Lutz til daglig gymnasielærer i musik og tysk.

Alligevel tager Martin Lutz med nærværende udgivelse et skridt ud i en ny dimension. Kammerkoret Camerata og dirigenten Martin Nagashima Toft præsenterer sammen med den lille gruppe udsøgte instrumentalister her komponisten Martin Lutz fra hans mest rendyrket klassiske side.

Hovedværket er det godt 40 minutter lange Stabat Mater (2007) for sopran- og tenorsolist, blandet kor, obo, vibrafon og cello. "Stabat Mater", et religiøst digt fra 1200-tallet, som tilskrives Jacopo di Todi, er en af den katolske traditions mest kendte hymner. Teksten handler om den sørgende Maria, som står ved korset, hvor hendes dødsdømte søn Jesus hænger og gennemlever sine sidste timer som jordisk menneske.

De seneste 500 år er hymnen med sin historie om Jesu lidelse og død på korset set fra hans moders ekstra smertelige synsvinkel blevet verdensberømt som grundlag for en lang række store musikværker i motetgenren. På den måde er Stabat Mater blevet til en slags motetgens sidestykke til Requiem-messen.

Og Martin Lutz placerer sig med sit Stabat Mater i den ambitiøse ende af genren, med større udstrækning end de berømte klassiske forbilleder Palestrina, Scarlatti og Pergolesi. Han lægger sig mere efter romantikkens værker af blandt andre Rossini og Schubert, som med et dramatisk oratorisk element hæver genren til koncertlængde.

Trots sin størrelse er Lutz' Stabat Mater dog ikke et svulmende romantisk værk. Der er noget intimt og nærværende over værket, som bevæger sig gennem 17 korte satser med skiftevis korisk og solistisk besætning, tilsat varierende instrumentaledsagelse. Musikken bæres af et stærkt billedskabende udtryk, som blander klassisk dur-mol-tonalitet med en mere frit fabulerende firklangsharmonik. Satserne træder frem som en række tableauer af stemningsskift, hvor det formskabende element er en gradvis klanglig opbygning af gentagne melodiske fraser, ofte med et enkelt fængende motiv som ostinat. Man mærker her musikkens rod i den legende improvisationspraksis, hvor de musikalske ideer flyder let og naturligt over i hinanden og skaber et blidt og organisk forløb.

De To Mariamotetter, Salve Regina og Ave Maria, hører genremæssigt til samme kategori som Stabat Mater. Også her er tale om yndede katolske tekstrække, som en kongerække af komponister i århundrederne har sat på den klassiske kortraditions stjernehimmel. Både Salve Regina og Ave Maria er tidebønner og hører dermed i modsætning til Stabat Mater til gudstjernen – de lægger ikke op til den stort anlagte koncertform, men har tradition for en mere ydmyg og eftertænksom musikalsk klædedragt. Det gælder også for Martin Lutz' Mariamotetter, som med hver deres nuance af andægtig alvor lovpriser den hellige jomfru Maria. Også her er den gode melodi i front, men det homogene a cappella format giver anledning til mere langstrakt frasering og et udtryk, som kan karakteriseres som en blanding af traditionel polyfon motetstil og nutidig modal korklang, som giver mindelser om de seneste års gennembrud af komponister som Ola Gjeilo, Paul Mealor og Eric Whitacre.

Den specielle titel Hoc est corpus hokus pokus afslører, at vi med det næste værk træder ud af sammenhængen med de traditionelle forbilleder. Men alligevel er der dog også her tale om en motetkomposition. Trylleformularen "Hokus Pokus" er nemlig udledt af de latinske ord "Hoc est corpus", som stammer fra den katolske nadveruddelings sakramentale forvandling af nadverbrødet til Jesu legeme. Hvad den underfundige værkstil derfor antyder, er, at motetten tager udgangspunkt i teksten til det latinske nadverrituals indledning, men derefter bliver afløst af en engelsk oversættelse af ritualets afslutning. Overgangen mellem de to sprogverdener bliver udtryksfuldt markeret af en langstrakt tenorsolo. En musikalsk pointe spores også i, at den polyfone og melismatiske stil i den latinske indledning bliver afløst af en varmt klingende og tekstnær koralstil i den engelske afslutning.

Albummets titelværk There is a spell upon your lips er med sine næsten 10 minutters spilletid også den længste enkelstående sats. Teksten er en engelsk oversættelse af Emil Aarestrups berømte kærlighedsdig "Der er en Trolddom paa din Læbe" fra 1835. Sopransolist, obo og kor smyger sig satserne igennem om hinanden i inderlig forening, hvor stilen blidt bevæger sig frem og tilbage mellem et nyromantisk klangunivers og en mere nutidig jazzpræget modal stil, markeret af en blød rytmisering af takten og en antydning af perkusive elementer i korstemmerne. Et langt afsnit i første halvdel af satserne træder frem med en række gentagelser af samme frase, hvor herre- og damestemmer på skift messer tekstens første ord "there is a spell" som en trylleformular. Og som en stiliseret dans omkring den usagte kærlighedserklæring bag de tryllebindende læber.

Med Two love songs til tekster af William Shakespeare spilles kærlighedstemaet naturligt videre fra Aarestrups trylleri, men samtidig trækkes den historiske ramme også tilbage til renæssancens poetiske univers. De to satser er meget homogene og ligger stil- og udtryksmæssigt ikke langt fra Mariamotetternes nutidige korlyrik. Alt er velklang og i en smagfuld balance, som nok kan siges at slægte renæssancens afklarede idealer på. Men med en nutidig klangfarve og ørefaldende melodier går Martin Lutz rent ind i hjertet med sit bud på moderne korklassikere.

DE MEDVIRKENDE

Kammerkoret CAMERATA blev grundlagt i 1965 og anses som et af landets førende kammerkor. Koret er et professionelt arbejdende amatørkor, bestående af 25 erfarne sangere under ledelse af den unge dirigent Jakob Hultberg. Repertoiret spænder vidt med en blanding af kirkelig og verdslig vesteuropæisk musik. CAMERATA giver mange a cappella-koncerter og gæster ofte kirker og koncertsale i både ind- og udland. Koret sætter også store oratorier op et par gange om året. I mere end 20 år har Händels Messias tiltrukket fulde huse i Holmens Kirke lige før jul. Andre tilbagevendende oratorier tæller Bachs Matthæus- og Johannespasmission samt Mozarts Requiem. CAMERATA har indspillet en lang række cd'er med musik af bl.a. Carl Nielsen, Vagn Holmboe og Poul Ruders, foruden en række udgivelser med musik til tekster af danske digtere. I 1999 modtog korets indspilning af Händels Messias en Dansk Grammy for Bedste Klassiske udgivelse. CAMERATA er en vigtig aktør i det danske musikliv. Gennem hyppige samarbejder med både etablerede og debuterende komponister, solister og musikere bidrager koret aktivt til udviklingen af det klassiske musikmiljø i Danmark. I september 2006 modtog CAMERATA Den Europæiske korpris, overrakt af Hans Kgl. Højhed Prinsgemalen, og i 2008 blev det til en 1. pris ved årets Holmboe-konkurrence. Senest har CAMERATA vundet 2. pris ved Aarhus International Choir Competition i 2010.

Stabat Mater

The grieving Mother stood weeping beside the cross where her Son was hanging

Through her weeping soul, compassionate and grieving,
a sword passed

O how sad and afflicted was that blessed Mother of the Only-begotten!

Who mourned and grieved and trembled looking at the torment of her glorious Child

Who is the person who would not weep seeing the Mother of Christ in such agony?

Who would not be able to feel compassion on beholding Christ's Mother suffering with her Son?

For the sins of his people she saw Jesus in torment and subjected to the scourge.

She saw her sweet offspring dying, forsaken,
while He gave up his spirit

[7] IX. Eia Mater, fons amoris,
Me sentire vim doloris
Fac ut tecum lugeam

[8] X. Fac ut ardeat cor meum
In amando Christum Deum
Ut sibi complaceam

[9] XI. Sancta Mater, istud agas
Crucifixi fige plagas
Cordi meo valide

[10] XII. Tui nati vulnerati
Tam dignati pro me pati Poenas mecum divide

XIII. Fac me vere tecum flere Crucifixo condolere
Donec ego vixero

[11] XIV. luxta crucem tecum stare
Te libenter sociare
In planctu desidero

[12] XV. Virgo virginum praeclara Mihi iam non sis amara
Fac me tecum plangere

[13] XVI. Fac ut portem Christi mortem
Passionis eius sortem
Et plagas recolere

O Mother, fountain of love, make me feel the power of sorrow, that I may grieve with you

Grant that my heart may burn in the love of Christ my Lord, that I may greatly please Him

Holy Mother, grant that the wounds of the Crucified drive deep into my heart.

That of your wounded Son, who so deigned to suffer for me,
I may share the pain

Let me sincerely weep with you, bemoan the Crucified, for as long as I live

To stand beside the cross with you, and gladly share the weeping, this I desire

Chosen Virgin of virgins, be not bitter with me,
let me weep with thee

Grant that I may bear the death of Christ, the fate of his Passion, and commemorate His wounds

[14] XVII. Fac me plagis vulnerari

Fac me cruce inebriari
Et cruore filii

[15] XVIII. Inflammatus et accensus, per te, Virgo, sim defensus in die iudicii

[16] XIX. Fac me cruce custodiri
Morte Christi praemuniri
Confoveri gratia

[17] XX. Quando corpus morietur
Fac ut animae donetur Paradisi gloria.
Amen.

To Mariamotetter

Salve Regina

[18] Salve, Regina, Mater misericordiae, vita, dulcedo, et spes nostra, Salve!
Ad te clamamus exsules filii Hevae, Ad te suspiramus, gementes et flentes in hac lacrimarum valle.
Eia, ergo, advocata nostra, illos tuos misericordes oculos ad nos converte; Et Jesum, benedictum fructum ventris tui, nobis post hoc exsilium ostende.
O clemens, O pia, O dulcis Virgo Maria.

Let me be wounded with his wounds, let me be inebriated by the cross and your Son's blood

Inflame and set on fire, may I be defended by you, Virgin, on the day of judgement

Let me be guarded by the cross, armed by Christ's death and His grace cherish me

When my body dies, grant that to my soul is given the glory of paradise.
Amen.

Two Marian Motets

Salve Regina

Hail, Holy Queen, Mother of mercy,
Our life, our sweetness and our hope.
To thee do we cry, poor banished children of Eve, to thee do we send up our sighs, mourning and weeping in this valley of tears.
Turn, then, most gracious Advocate, thine eyes of mercy toward us,
and after this, our exile, show unto us the blessed fruit of thy womb, Jesus.
O clement, O loving, O sweet Virgin Mary.

Ave Maria

[19] Ave Maria, gratia plena, Dominus tecum.
Benedicta tu in mulieribus, et benedictus fructus ventris tui, Iesus.
Sancta Maria, Mater Dei, ora pro nobis peccatoribus, nunc et in hora mortis nostrae,
Amen.

Hoc est corpus, hokus pokus

[20] Qui cum Passioni voluntarie traderetur, acceptit panem
et gratias agnes fregit, deditque discipulis suis, dicens: Accipite et maducate ex hoc omnes hoc est enim corpus meum quod pro vobis tradetur.

When supper was ended, he took the cup. Again he gave you thanks and praise, gave the cup to his disciples, and said:
Take this, all of you and drink from it:
This is the cup of my blood,
the blood of an ever lasting covenant.
It will be shed for you and for all men so that sins are forgiven.
Do this in memory of me.

Ave Maria

Hail Mary, full of grace, the Lord is with thee.
Blessed art thou amongst women and blessed is the fruit of thy womb, Jesus.
Holy Mary, Mother of God, pray for us sinners,
now, and in the hour of our death.
Amen.

Hoc est corpus hokus pokus

Before he was given up to death, a death he freely accepted, he took bread, gave you thanks.
He broke the bread,
gave it to his disciples and said:
Take this, all of you, and eat it:
This is my body which will be given up for you.

There is a spell upon your lips

(Emil Aarestrup; eng. trans. Martin Lutz)

21 There is a spell upon your lips,
There is a gulf inside your eyes,
In the sound of your voice I hear the ethereal music of a dream.

There is a clearness on your brow,
There is a darkness in your hair,
A stream of blossoming grace surrounds you wherever you stand or walk.

There is a treasure of eternal wisdom in the dimple on your cheek.
There is a well, a source of health for every heart that is in your mind.

There is a world inside you, a chaotic and romantic spring,
which I never can forget, which I adore and comprehend.

Two Love Songs

Those lips that love's own hand did make

(William Shakespeare)

22 Those lips that love's own hand did make Breathed forth the sound that said "I hate,"
To me that languish'd for her sake:
But when she saw my woeful state,
Straight in her heart did mercy come,
Chiding that tongue that ever sweet

Was used in giving gentle doom,
And taught it thus anew to greet:
"I hate", she alter'd with an end,
That follow'd it as gentle day
Doth follow night, who like a fiend
From heaven to hell is flown away;
"I hate" from hate away she threw,
And saved my life, saying – "not you."

How oft, when thou, my music, music play'st

(William Shakespeare)

23 How oft, when thou, my music, music play'st,
Upon that blessed wood whose motion sounds
With thy sweet fingers, when thou gently sway'st
The wiry concord that mine ear confounds,
Do I envy those jacks that nimble leap
To kiss the tender inward of thy hand.
Whilst my poor lips, which should that harvest reap,
At the wood's boldness by thee blushing stand!
To be so tickled, they would change their state
And situation with those dancing chips,
O'er whom thy fingers walk with gentle gait,
Making dead wood more blest than living lips.
Since saucy jacks so happy are in this,
Give them thy fingers, me thy lips to kiss.
